Movie Migrations is not only an introduction to one of the world's most vibrant national cinemas, but also a provocative call to reimagine the very concepts of "national cinemas" and "film genre." Challenging traditional critical assumptions that place Hollywood at the center of genre production, Hye Seung Chung and David Scott Diffrient bring South Korean cinema to the forefront of recent and ongoing debates about globalization and transnationalism.

In Movie Migrations: Transnational Genre Flows and South Korean Cinema, Hye Seung Chung and David Diffrient explore a frequently noted characterization of Korean cinema, citing such critical constructs as Miriam Hansen's vernacular modernity, to characterize the transcultural nature of certain Korean film genres. They also observe that Korean cinema's transcultural position has become complicated by the country's embrace of globalization, multiculturalism, and Hallyu (the Korean Wave ...
